JOBS BOOST ON THE WAY

SCORES of jobs are to be created in Harlow in a boost to the town which is still reeling from the loss of more than 400 posts in the wake of the credit crunch.

This week's announcement that two companies are intending to start recruiting comes as some relief following the news earlier this year that some of the town's biggest employers, including travel firm Tui and pharmaceuticals giant GlaxoSmithKline, were planning major staff cutbacks.

Print firm Blue Printing will soon complete a multi-million pound move to the town and is looking to bolster its workforce while fast-food chain McDonald's is hoping to employ more than 80 new staff at its Harlow outlets.

McDonald's is taking on new workers after sustained growth across the UK has seen the burger chain serve an extra two million customers a month.

Tony Fagg, who owns the franchises for the town's four McDonald's restaurants, said: "Creating new jobs is great for the local communities and my business alone will be recruiting around 80 local people to fulfil roles generated by this growth."

London firm Blue Printing has recently acquired a 4,645 sq.m. site on the Templefields industrial estate for a reported £2m following an astonishing 82 per cent increase in turnover last year.

It is currently in the process of transferring its operations to the new premises.

The increased workload will result in the creation of new jobs when the site becomes fully operational, which is expected to be before the end of the year.

A company spokesman told the Star: "It's difficult to say at the moment how many positions we will be looking to fill but we'll certainly have a better idea towards the end of October."

The news has been welcomed by Harlow MP Bill Rammell who described it as a positive sign during the current economic downturn.

"At a time when I know the economic situation is difficult it is very heartening that new jobs are coming to Harlow," he said.

Children go back to nature for 'Playday' celebrations

HUNDREDS of children descended upon Harlow's Parndon Wood Nature Reserve for a celebration of youngsters' right to play.

The event was one of 500 held across the country to mark national Playday.

Activities at Parndon Wood included den building, bug hunting, pond dipping, a mini-assault course, blindfold trail, scavenger hunt, art and craft activities, woodcrafts and sports.

Harlow Council chairman Tony Hall, who attended, said: "We are lucky to have such a wonderful nature reserve on our doorstep and the Playday event made full use of the woods to give children a chance to get close to nature and have fun in a safe but challenging environment."

Summit meeting to review arts threat

A MAJOR conference is due to take place in Harlow which organisers hope will revive the fortunes of the town's arts scene.

The summit meeting to discuss the future of arts provision in the town has been called by Harlow Arts Council after it lost its tenancy of the Latton Bush Centre because of a rent hike.

HAC chairwoman Jackie Storey said on Monday: "When we lost Latton

By JIM TANFIELD
tanfieldj@hertsexnews.co.uk

Bush we could not do what we really wanted to which was to become a local communicator for arts in the town.

"Since we lost the centre we are also unable to give grants because we don't have an income as we used to when we could hire out rooms at Latton Bush."

Mrs Storey also added the current threat to arts in the town needed addressing, including the future of the Victoria Hall Theatre and recent changes to The Playhouse.

"The conference will give an opportunity for all groups to meet each other and discuss things of current interests and concerns," she added.

The conference is to be held on September 20 at the Harlow Study Centre in Waterhouse Moor, starting at 10am. It will include a speech from culture minister Margaret Hodge on the national arts scene.

There will also be contributions from Harlow MP Bill Rammell and Duke

Dobbing, head of external relations for the successful Snape Maltings Concert Hall in Suffolk.

Also included on the itinerary are three workshops, one each on literature, performance and fine arts where delegates can have a say about the future.

The HAC annual meeting will also take place on the day. The cost is £8 per person which will cover the cost of food. Application forms for tickets are available from The Gibberd Gallery, St John's ARC in Old Harlow and Harlow Museum in Muskham Road.

Police reprimand schoolboy hacker

A PUPIL who hacked in to the computer system at Mark Hall School has escaped prosecution despite owning up.

Essex Police confirmed this week that the 14-year-old admitted he was behind the incident reported in the Star last month.

But rather than arrest and charge the youngster, officers issued him with a formal reprimand, a police warning which can be given to persons under 18 who have not committed offences before and who admit their wrongdoing.

The breach, which took place over the weekend of July 12-13, raised fears that sensitive data such as examination grades may have been accessed or even altered. However, it is now thought no personal information was put at risk.

It is understood the school is also taking internal disciplinary action against the pupil, but it is not known whether this will amount to expulsion.

Warm welcome for rector

THE congregation of a Harlow church have welcomed their new rector.

Rev Martin Harris, who has also become the first-ever chaplain to be appointed by Harlow Council, took up his new position at St Paul's Church in The High with a special service on Thursday evening.

Mr Harris, who has moved from Southend to take up the position formerly held by David Kirkwood, told the Star he was delighted at the response he has received from his new congregation.

"My first impressions of Harlow are very positive," he said. "It seems like a very green town compared to Southend and I've had a very warm welcome from both the church community and residents. "People here are polite and friendly, and although I'm still settling in it already feels like home."

Man charged with rape of pensioner

A MAN accused of raping a 74-year-old woman in the Staple Tye area of Harlow has been remanded in custody.

Michael Cayode (22), of Moorfield, Harlow, is charged with offences of rape, sexual assault, robbery and attempted robbery.

He appeared at Harlow Court on Monday when a bail application was refused.

In addition to the rape allegation, Cayode is accused of being involved with the robbery and sexual assault of a 56-year-old woman in Southern Way on August 3 and the attempted robbery of a 63-year-old woman two days later.

Bride & groom said: 'I canoe'

BRIDE and groom David Cayford and Jacqueline Fitzpatrick had the wedding of their dreams when they shunned tradition and exchanged vows in a canoe on the River Stort.

The pair, from The Dashes, Harlow, paddled separate canoes to the register office at Bishop's Stortford where they tied the knot.

Two days later their marriage was blessed as part of an elaborate reception for more than 200 guests while they stood in canoes moored on the river in front of Bishop's Stortford Canoe Club.

The couple rounded off the celebrations with a honeymoon on a narrowboat.

David (49) a firefighter based at Loughton, said: "I think it was a first for the club. It was a very idyllic setting and we wanted the club involved because that's where we met."

David's son Anthony joined the club seven years ago and rather than just watching from the river bank, David decided to get involved in the sport as well. Jacqueline's children, Yasmin and Joseph, joined in 2005.

"Our eyes met across the water and we got to know each other," said David. "We began racing together in double K2s but not to any great standard, not like Anthony and Joseph."

Anthony was David's best man at the ceremony while Joseph (15) gave away his mum, who is a hairdresser in Hertford.

David's daughter Deborah (12) was bridesmaid and Yasmin (17) was a bridesmaid's attendant. All six of them paddled to and from the register office.

The blessing was conducted by humanist celebrant Sandra Hart after which the newlyweds passed through an arch of paddles.

Jacqueline (44) said: "I had come out of a bad marriage about five years before and I wasn't interested at all but when I met David it was just different."

Training success

THE number of NHS staff training for NVQs to further their careers at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital has passed the 200 mark.

The hospital's NVQ training centre, which opened in May 1999, has now helped more than 200 past and present employees successfully complete their chosen training courses and progress within the NHS.

Arson attack accused in court

TWO teenagers charged with the murder of Harlow woman Kerry Youngs in an arson attack three years ago have been remanded in custody pending a further hearing later this year.

The accused, who cannot be named for legal reasons, appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court on Friday to answer charges of murder, causing grievous bodily harm with intent and arson with intent to endanger life.

Both will remain in custody until a plea and directions hearing on October 31.

Three other people – a 39-year-old woman and a 15-year-old girl from Harlow and a 37-year-old man from Woodford Green – also appeared at court on the same day charged with conspiracy to pervert the course of justice.

They were released on conditional bail until the same date.

New crusade to flush out underage drinking

THOUSANDS of pounds worth of alcohol confiscated from youngsters was symbolically poured away as authorities in Harlow launched a new crackdown on underage drinking.

Bottles of spirits, alcopops, cider, beer and wine were emptied into a large tub at The Water Gardens on Friday because legally confiscated alcohol must be destroyed.

The haul, which was seized on six occasions over a six-month period, was

By JIM TANFIELD
tanfieldj@hertsessexnews.co.uk

put on display at the relaunch of Operation Nano which, in the coming weeks, will focus on illegal summertime drinking.

Shopkeepers selling alcohol to anyone under the age of 18 as well as parents and children have all been targeted in the initiative being jointly run by Harlow Council, Essex County Council's Trading Standards, Essex Police and the Safer Harlow Partnership.

The operation will use a combination of test-purchasing and education to ensure children are unable to buy alcohol for themselves or ask others to buy it for them.

Nick Churchill, chairman of Harlow Council's licensing committee said: "Underage drinking can lead to anti-social behaviour so that's why it's important we work together to tackle it."

"This campaign starts a new assault on underage drinking. It will see action taken against premises and alcohol taken from the hands of children in the street."

He added: "We will send out a strong message through this campaign that we are not finished yet and that we won't tolerate underage alcohol sales, underage drinking or buying of alcohol for children."

A spokeswoman for the Essex Ambulance Service, a member of the Safer Harlow Partnership, said ambulance crews were often called out to underage drinkers suffering from either the effects of alcohol – such as vomiting or passing out – or alcohol-related incidents like falls.

Anyone who knows of a trader selling alcohol to minors can report them anonymously on 0845 605 2222.

Snapshots of times in old Harlow

A COLLECTION of old photographs depicting Harlow in decades past is the latest display to be installed as part of the town's Window Works project.

The scheme's organisers, Harlow Council Arts Development Team and Harlow Renaissance, have worked with the Museum of Harlow to put together a regularly-changing exhibition in the window of the former Moben kitchen shop in Broad Walk.

Images representing 14 themes have been chosen by museum staff and these will be rotated every few weeks. Currently photographs depicting housing and education are on display.

Louisa Martland, of Harlow Renaissance, said: "The project aims to decorate and disguise empty retail units, helping the town centre to become a more colourful and exciting place to shop, work and visit."

"So far we have run a drop-in workshop for children, worked with older residents on the Tree of Life and have worked with Harlow College which has had several displays up, including their current one looking at Harlow's sculpture collection."

Bank's gift will raise a few smiles

PUPILS upset by the theft of a camera from their school will soon be snapping away again thanks to a donation from the local branch of a leading high street bank.

Barclays, in Terminus Street, Harlow, has donated £200 towards the cost of a replacement camera for youngsters at Henry Moore School following the break-in during the half-term holiday.

Karen Cross, community relations officer at the bank, said: "This is a great opportunity for Barclays to make a real and lasting difference by supporting the Friends of Henry Moore School with the purchase of a new camera."

Friends' spokeswoman Linda Reynolds added: "We think it's amazing that Barclays has such a strong community programme where schools like us can benefit."

Vote for your Harlow Hotspot

HARLOW Hotspots gives the people of Harlow the chance to make the town a better place in which to live and work.

Harlow Hotspots is run by Harlow Renaissance in conjunction with the Harlow Star and Essex County Council.

Over the past few weeks we have been asking community groups, societies, tenant associations and charity or voluntary organisations to nominate a project which will benefit the community and enhance the local environment.

Nominations have now closed and on Monday the projects nominated will be whittled down to a shortlist of three. After that, you, the residents of Harlow, will be able to vote for the one you want to win. You will be able to cast your vote from Wednesday on the Star website at www.harlowstar.co.uk or by visiting the Harlow Renaissance marquee at the Harlow Town Show on August 31.

Andrew Bramidge, chief executive

BEAUTY SPOT: Cook's Spinney Wood, near The Stow, was one of two winning projects in the 2007 Harlow Hotspots competition. Pictured are Maura Wright, who nominated the project, and Andrew Tomliu who created the hand-carved wooden signs which now adorn the site of Harlow Renaissance, said: "We've been very encouraged by the range of ideas put forward by a number of local community groups. It's very heartening to see yet again such a demonstrable commitment to maintaining the environment we live in or visit for our leisure activities.

"We look forward to welcoming everyone to our marquee at the Town Show when local people will make the decision on the project which will help people see Harlow a little bit differently."

I'VE been following the whole recycling story as it has started to unravel and I have a few questions. I hope one of our newly elected councillors will deign to answer. Firstly, with the announcement of the council's embarrassing financial situation, where is the money coming from for these shiny new wheeled bins?

Secondly, while we're talking finances, who will be paying for the new bin lorries that we shall need to pick up these wheeled wonders? It wasn't so very long ago that people were being told that unless they lived in areas such as Church Langley they couldn't have wheeled bins as there were only two lorries that could pick them up.

My third question is this; has the council checked that these bins, once full, are still going to be light enough for the binmen to lift? Or are we going to have a situation in a couple of years where we'll be expected to carry and deposit our own bins into the lorries (which has happened in other areas) because of health and safety regulations?

A further thought; will we get any cast-iron guarantees that food waste will remain a weekly collection or will we find it trimmed back to fortnightly in a couple of years as it won't be deemed cost-effective to collect such a small amount weekly? I'd like to know if the council has any plans for our current blue boxes and bags. Will they collect them and recycle them?

I'm also keen to hear what the plans are for those houses that are going to struggle to accommodate the replacement bins because I'm assuming there is an actual plan, not just a feverent hope that people will put up and shut up.

My final question is this; how is the council going to assist pensioners and the disabled in getting their bins outside, particularly if they can't manage to get them to the front of the property? Will they have the binmen coming into the garden to collect them?

I'm concerned that, as yet, nobody has come forward and clearly set out in detail what these new plans will entail. Instead it seems that the bombshell has been dropped with little or no thought for the consequences or our concerns.

Stop the spin

SIR, Star readers need to be mindful that, despite last week's front page story headlined "Jambuster", the proposals to widen the A414 between the M11 roundabout at Hastingwood and the junction with Southern Way have not been approved and funded but only shortlisted.

As with the other story about a bypass - Bill Rammell had a meeting with another junior minister and then issued a press release - we need to see the colour of the Government's money before drawing any conclusions.

The town will need more than £5m to cope with the 20-30,000 new cars that will be generated by 16,000 new houses.

These road scheme announcements could go the same way as Harlow College's March 2006 announcement that Anglia Ruskin University was to invest in a brand new building in Harlow. As the Star reported more than two years later the proposals are still in the embryonic stage with no official drawings even submitted.

All politicians need to calm down, resist spinning stories and focus on real schemes with confirmed funding. Perhaps an update on plans to increase the sewage treatment capacity at Rye Meads, if there are any, might be more relevant to the growth plans for Harlow

Nigel Clark
Secretary, STOP Harlow North
High Street, Hunsdon

Swift decisions

SIR, We may rightly wonder how much light has been shone on Harlow Council's finances by the letter from the Labour group leaders, except to admit there were "problems". (Star, August 7).

What I can say is that there were overspends by the previous Labour/Liberal Democrat administration on the capital budgets last year which required swift decisions to balance the books when we came into power in May.

These resulted in a combination of some investment projects being pushed into next year and some additional borrowing which was not planned. The previous administration may have been thinking about what to do but left the hard decisions to us at the policy and resources committee in June.

All of these issues arise from the severe financial problems of the 2007/8 financial year arising from over optimistic expectations of money coming in (from the 'something will turn up' school of financial management) and the emergency (panic?) measures of mopping up after the black hole.

There is still the £4m investment budget for this year for which there is no money at the moment. Of that, £1m is already committed for safety projects or where we are contractually committed. There are plans to cover this spending but the fragile state of the national economy makes forecasting income from asset sales very difficult.

With regard to reserves, £420,000 is being taken from earmarked reserves this financial year to deal with two issues. One was additional severance costs (£207,000) that could not be capitalised as part of the 2008/9 budget and the other was a number of one-off items of expenditure (£213,000).

Last year £220,000 was taken from specific reserves to finance severance costs associated with the swimming pool closure and another £400,000 taken from the insurance fund to help fill the £1.8m black hole. A million from reserves to prop up planned spending is not sound financial management because we are gambling that nothing untoward will strike at Harlow - floods, storms, terrorism, catastrophes - which could easily swallow our current reserve of just £2m in one day.

It would require a huge amount of spin to suggest the council's finances are in a good state. A lot of work has gone on since May to manage the situation but there is still more to do.

Councillor Simon Carter
Mark Hall Moors, Harlow

Debt dilemma

SIR, I am finding it hard to understand just how Harlow Council is meant to solve its major financial problem. They say they are £3.5m in debt but it could possibly be as much as £10m.

The council is to blame for the financial crisis - all parties included - but I am sure they are doing everything they can to make up the deficit with the minimum disruption to the residents.

If they put up the council tax then we will not see an improvement in services as the bulk of the increase will go on paying off debts as opposed to improving services. If they sell off assets then there will be little impact on the cost to the taxpayer. However, there will be a reduction in services and facilities.

It's a no-win situation for the council and they should have realised this sooner.

One way of solving the problem would be to increase contributions from central government. As I understand it, if central government cut its contribution by one per cent, then the council must make up the difference which is an increase on our council taxes by as much as five per cent before any annual increase the council makes anyway.

If the council asks the Government to increase its contribution we may well end up not having to lose out at all. However, I can see that the way out the council will use is to sell off some assets at the same time as putting up taxes.

In the long run, though, that debt will not come down without some sort of major changes and someone somewhere will lose out through the incompetence of Harlow Council, whoever has been running it over the past few years.

Off the track

SIR, You quite rightly point out Harlow has an extensive cycle track system. As a motorist I also think it's a pity it's not used by cyclists.

However, as a cyclist I can tell you why - the tracks are often not fit to use. In some locations motorists use them as parking spaces, resulting in parked cars and holes to avoid.

Other locations have street furniture set in the middle of the cycle track to act as an obstacle course while elsewhere the pedestrian section has been resurfaced but the cycle lane left in a poor state of repair.

In addition, nettles and brambles make it difficult for cyclists to stay on the track without being stung or scratched. No wonder cyclists use the roads a lot of the time.

Army wedding

SIR, Further to last week's letter from Marjory Last about the Land Girls, my mother Mary Hartgrove received her medal in the post last week.

She used to live in Bilston, Wolverhampton, and joined the land army between 1943-44 when she was posted to Roydon. She then met my father, Fred, in a tea shop in Epping when he was on leave from the lifeguards. He came from North Weald.

She married Fred some five years later with my mother being "married" from the land army hostel in Roydon. Two other Land Girls were her bridesmaids.

I believe she was the first Land Girl to marry from there. They have been happily married for some 59 years now; they are both 84 years young! Had she not have joined the land army I wouldn't be here today!

College quits town's education consortium

A GROUND-breaking partnership of Harlow's education providers has been dealt a blow with the news that the town's college is to give up its membership.

College authorities confirmed this week that they are severing ties with Harlow Education Consortium and will no longer pay the annual subscription.

HEC, which comprises 50 of the town's learning providers and is the largest body of its kind in the country, has been praised for helping schools to share examples of best practice and improving education in the town.

But college principal Colin Hindmarch, told the Star the college was capable of working with local schools without the assistance of the consortium and that the money it has been paying for membership – around £3,500 a year – could be better spent elsewhere.

"In return for the annual subscription HEC provides a number of services but the college has made no use of any of those services for many years," said Mr Hindmarch. "It simply makes no business sense to continue paying."

"This isn't a criticism of HEC. All I'm saying is that none of the services it provides are of particular benefit to us."

"If I was running a primary school rather than a college then I'm sure I would find a lot

By BEN WILKINSON, Chief Reporter
wilkinsonb@hertsexnews.co.uk

of those services invaluable, but schools don't have access to the same range of services as we do."

Mr Hindmarch said he did not believe the move would have a detrimental effect on co-operation between the town's education providers.

"Regular meetings take place between local schools and the college and these are not organised by HEC," he said. "I'm very confident that there is a close working relationship between Harlow's schools and us – more so than ever before – and I don't believe that us not paying our subscription to HEC jeopardises that."

However, Harlow MP Bill Rammell said he was concerned by the development and hoped the college would reverse its decision.

"I believe it's far better when schools and the college work in co-operation in Harlow and the consortium has been a very effective way of achieving that," he said.

The Star contacted HEC but at the time of going to press nobody was available for comment.

Man attacked at nightclub

POLICE want to quiz three men following a brawl at a Harlow nightclub which left a man with a fractured jaw.

The incident happened in the early hours of last Saturday at Fat Sam's in Terminus Street. The victim, who had been involved in an argument, was kicked and punched.

One of his attackers is described as white, in his 20s, 5ft8ins tall (1.73m), of slim build, with blond spiky hair and wearing glasses.

The second suspect is described as white, also in his 20s, 5ft5ins tall (1.65m) with dark, spiky hair while the third is white, 6ft1in tall (1.85m) with shaved dark hair.

Anyone with information should call PC Tristan Carter at Harlow station on 0300 333 4444.

Colleagues say farewell to Molly, the caring carer

A CARE worker has retired after a 37-year career looking after the needs of the elderly and vulnerable.

Mary Batsford, known as Molly, started working for Essex County Council in 1971 as a home help based in Harlow.

Since then her role has moved from personal care into re-enablement, helping people live independently in their homes for longer.

David Finch, Essex County Council's cabinet member for adults, health and community, said: "Molly adapted well to all the challenges and changes of the role."

"In treacherous weather

she even summoned the help of family members with their four-wheel drive vehicles to reach service users in villages practically cut off by snow.

"We will be very sorry to see her go. It is the commitment and dedication of people like her who help us achieve our pledges to support vulnerable people and to deliver the best quality life in Britain. We wish her a long and happy retirement."

Mrs Batsford, who lives in Harlow, was joined by colleagues for a farewell lunch during which she was presented with a bouquet of flowers, a vase and garden vouchers.

Blood drive plea to iron out rejections

Shopping centre's call of the wild

SHOPPERS took a walk on the wild side when they mingled with animals at the Harvey Centre. Children met an owl, a snake and a bearded dragon from Paradise Wildlife Park when the creatures visited the shopping centre last Wednesday. A Harvey Centre spokeswoman said: "It was absolutely a success and we are very pleased with the outcome. The idea was for the children to get up close to the animals and learn more."

The Harvey Centre will play host to the animals again at the end of the month.

A SUMMER call for blood has come with an added request for people to watch their diets to ensure they keep their red stuff in tip-top condition.

During the holiday period, the number of donations to blood banks routinely drops by about 20 per cent.

But locally, National Blood Service staff have noticed another problem, with many of those who do make the trip having to be turned away because their level of haemoglobin is too low.

As many as one in 20 would-be donors who attend sessions in Harlow and Epping are unable to give blood for this reason and, in most cases, it is because their diet does not contain enough iron.

NBS spokesman Gareth Bell said: "Iron is important to keep your levels of haemoglobin up, which is why it is so important to eat foods containing iron to maintain healthy blood. Examples of foods that are iron-rich are meat such as lamb or beef, as well as beans, other pulses and green vegetables. We hope this campaign will highlight the important connection between a healthy diet and healthy blood and will encourage people to come and donate."

The NBS is also encouraging regular donors not to forget because of summer distractions, and for those heading to exotic holiday destinations to donate before they go because malaria jabs can prevent people making donations for up to six months.

The next sessions in Harlow are at the Latton Bush Centre, in Southern Way, on Sunday from 10am-12.30pm and 2-4.15pm, and at Church Langley Community Centre on Tuesday from 2-4pm and 5-7.30pm.

RNA celebrates its golden anniversary

OCTOBER marks the 50th anniversary of the Harlow New Town branch of the Royal Naval Association which is urging anyone with a connection to the service to get involved with the celebrations.

The group hopes that its golden anniversary year will draw interest from former Royal Navy, Royal Marines, Wrens and Naval Nursing Service personnel who are not already members.

A special service will be held at St James with St Luke's Church at Staple Tye on October 19 during which the branch's standard will be laid up and a new one dedicated.

Branch chairman Peter Roalf said: "Hopefully we can rekindle some of the latent interest in ensuring the continuity of the branch, which can only be achieved by membership numbers."

"We extend an open invitation to come along to any of our meetings which are usually held on the fourth Monday evening of the month at the Royal British Legion Club in Latton Common Road at 8pm."

In a change to normal procedure, the August meeting takes place next week on August 18.

For more information about the association, call branch secretary June Ray on (01279) 865919.

Charity has a ball

MONEY raised during a recent event at Old Harlow's St Nicholas School has been donated to the charity Home-Start.

The £2,000, which was raised at the school's annual Summer Ball and auction, will assist the charity's work helping families with young children during times of difficulty and stress.

Spokeswoman Sue Drake said: "We are delighted that the Friends of St Nicholas School decided to support us this year."

"This money will help us continue to train and support our wonderful team of home visiting volunteers and to provide activities and support groups for the families who are referred to us."

Time for tee nears

IT'S time to start practising your swing for the golfing event of the year – the Streets2Homes Open Golf Day on October 9.

The day of fun on the fairway, which will raise money for the Harlow homelessness charity, takes place at Bishop's Stortford Golf Club.

Prizes include a car for a hole-in-one and the day of sport will be followed by a charity auction and a three-course meal.

Teams wishing to take part, or businesses which would like to sponsor the event, should call 07902 329510.

Alzheimer's walk

DEMENTIA charity the Alzheimer's Society is holding its biggest fundraiser of the year in Harlow on September 14.

The Memory Walk, which starts in School Lane at 11am, includes a main four-mile route as well as two shorter walks for the less able.

Last year it raised £7,000 and organisers hope to beat this by attracting a record turnout. To take part or for more details, call (01279) 418331.

Tales of old Rome

ROMAN-themed fun takes place at The Museum Of Harlow, in Muskham Road, with a range of activities and events for children.

On Saturday, a 'Gaius Special' features a storyteller plus Roman craft activities, with anyone able to take part for just £1.

Then from Tuesday until next Saturday, a Torsion artillery – a Roman arrow-shooting machine – will be at the museum, along with lots of activities based around Roman weapons.

Air ambulance is 10

ESSEX Air Ambulance has celebrated its 10th anniversary with a special party.

The event, at Highlands Park, in Chelmsford, included crew members from throughout the county, including Harlow's Neil Peachey.

Picnic promotion of services for children

SERVICES offered by Children's Centres in Harlow were promoted at a fun summer event at Stewards School's playing fields.

Organised by Harlow Children's Centre Network, the afternoon family picnic last Friday included music, games, face-painting and craft activities, and attracted lots of mums with children under five.

Spokesman Chris Arrowsmith said: "The idea was to allow families to meet up and find out what is happening in the Summer dining in High Ongar at Sanuk

SANUK, High Ongar's prestigious Thai restaurant, has an enviable reputation as a choice venue for the discerning diner looking for excellent food within a charming 'olde worlde' building with a great atmosphere.

A secluded courtyard dining area is also available for relaxed, alfresco dining on summer evenings.

A mouth-watering menu of freshly cooked Thai cuisine includes sea bass, lobster, red and green curries and many more tempting beef, chicken and prawn dishes, all with the appropriate accompaniments. The menu is complemented by a carefully chosen and exclusive wine list.

Situated opposite the church in High Ongar, just off the A414, a few miles from Harlow, Sanuk is open Monday to Saturday from 12 noon-2pm and in the evening, from 5.30pm-11pm.

On Sundays, Sanuk is open from 12 noon until 10pm, serving a special set menu priced at £10.95 for adults and $4.95 for children.

Sanuk also caters for business lunches, family parties, and special celebrations.

Come and enjoy the Sanuk (meaning fun, warmth, and the good things in life) experience!

For further information, or to book a table, contact SANUK at 38 The Street, High Ongar, Essex. Tel: (01277) 366551.

Spend locally, council urged

COUNCIL chiefs have been told they hold the key to giving Harlow's small businesses a much-needed boost – as figures show only a fraction of the authority's budget is spent in the town.

As the credit crunch tightens its grip on the local economy, Essex business leaders are calling on Harlow Council to spearhead a culture of localism by using firms based in and around the town to supply more of its goods and services.

Launched by the Federation of Small Businesses, the drive is being backed by the council's own chairman Tony Hall, who has agreed to attend a briefing event in November organised specifically to encourage local companies to bid for council contracts.

It is hoped the meeting, which will also be attended by the FSB's national chairman John Wright, will mark a turning point in the council's relationship with the local business community.

A new website will also be set up later in the year to help businessmen in the town find out about contracts that they can bid for.

Compared with other councils in Essex, Harlow performs poorly when it comes to spending its money locally. Whereas Tendring Council spends 48.5 per cent of its budget within its own district and more than 50 per cent within the county, Harlow spends just 11.7 per cent of its budget in the town and 27.5 per cent in Essex.

By BEN WILKINSON
Chief Reporter
wilkinsonb@hertsexnews.co.uk

However, its spending within the county is only just shy of the FSB's national target for councils of 30 per cent.

Mid and North West Essex branch spokesman Keith Brown said: "If you compare Harlow Council to our target for local authorities, they are not far off. Harlow are doing okay and they are making a big effort to do better."

"We now have the support of Councillor Hall which is very welcome and we expect Harlow to be well up the league table next year."

Mr Hall said using local firms would help create jobs in the town and benefit the environment.

"The aim is to create more local jobs so residents can work locally and not be forced to commute to find good quality employment. That has environmental benefits as well as economic ones," he said.

Showcase for skate skills

HARLOW'S skaters showed off their skills at the official opening of the town's new skatepark.

The free six-hour skate jam saw those with the best skills in various categories awarded a £100 prize, with £300 going to the overall champion.

Spectators were given a treat as the participants showcased their talents, despite heavy rain interrupting the action at times.

The event, held at the Town Park on Saturday, was sponsored by skating equipment manufacturer Etnies along with Harlow Council and local skate shop Motel 6.

Etnies spokeswoman Gemma Bratt said: "The pro skaters put on a good display for the kids to watch with the standard of skating very high."

"The non-sponsored skaters competed separately because it would have been unfair as obviously the pros would be at more of an advantage, but nevertheless, they too put on a really impressive show."

DISCO CLOSES

JOSEPH'S Discotheque closed on Sunday, less than two years after it was opened by bookmaker Joseph Jennings. "I have made a very, very big mistake. I should have stuck to the business I know," Mr Jennings told the Star. Joseph's was opened at Harlow Mill in October 1981 as an upmarket discotheque with a restaurant, but it was not well supported.

GIPSY RUMOUR 'UNFOUNDED'

RUMOURS that workmen are clearing part of Harlow Common, near the Coach and Horses public house, to provide a new site for gypsies are completely unfounded, Harlow Council has insisted.

LLOYD TO THE RESCUE

THANKS to 11-year-old Lloyd Reeves, a lucky seagull is still alive - for Lloyd, of Little Grove Field, rescued the stricken bird from a muddy pond at Little Parndon Nature Reserve. He and brother Jason were out fishing early on Monday when they saw the seagull floundering in the water.

GIRLS JOIN AIR CADETS

2313 Squadron of the Air Training Corps, based at Bush Fair, will be undergoing something of a revolution next year. For the first time in its 26-year history, girls are to be allowed to become cadets. "We hope to welcome our first girls in April," said Flight Lieutenant Keith Brackenborough.

Sad demise of a New Town first

By BEN WILKINSON

PASSING quietly this month, rather like a one-time respected pillar of the community who dies an unloved recluse, was the Harlow Citizen newspaper.

Given that for the past 28 years the Citizen, under varying guises, has been the Star's leading rival, you might expect some gloating from these quarters. Far from it.

To those of us who work in the press, it is a sad day when any newspaper is forced to close. And in the case of the Citizen, its demise marks the end of an era not just for Harlow but for the newspaper industry as a whole.

Launched on May 1, 1953 and costing 2d from local newsagents, the Citizen was not only the first newspaper dedicated to serving the newly built town of Harlow but was the first established in any of Britain's post-war New Towns.

Previously, the burgeoning Harlow community had relied on rural-focused papers such as the West Essex Gazette, Bishop's Stortford's Herts & Essex Observer or the Hertford-based Hertfordshire Mercury & County Press, all of which buried snippets of Harlow news away in small, obscure columns.

In contrast, the Citizen promised to be at the heart of its community.

The first edition led on a scoop about proposals to give Harlow its own local council. Meanwhile, the front page picture was of three-year-old Stephen Cliff, the first baby to have been born in the New Town.

Inside, features included the gossip column "Citizen's Diary: Around The Town" as well as "Citizen of the Week" which, in this first edition, was councillor and educationalist J.P. Brown.

Most of the writing was anonymous, notable exceptions being in the column "Our Children" by Mary Ross, which featured parenting advice, and the sports coverage by Ken Cook (who much later on became editorial director of the Star).

While perhaps dry and wordy by today's standards, the Citizen was bright, modern, fresh and forward-looking for its time. Indeed, it went on to win many awards and became one of the most highly respected local newspapers in Britain.

This success continued for many years, even into the 1970s when it merged with the rival Gazette to become the Harlow Gazette & Citizen.

In an editorial column introducing itself to readers, the first edition proclaimed: "One of the main objects of the Harlow Citizen will be to play a large part in binding together the old and new to make Harlow not only an exciting new town but a unified whole. It will be a matter of policy to encourage local organisations in every way possible."

Going on to talk about the considerable investment and risk involved in establishing the paper, it added: "The Harlow Citizen is being published to supply an essential service to a developing community in whose future the proprietors of this journal have a profound faith."

It continued: "Completely independent, we attach ourselves to no sect or party, political or religious, and we offer the citizens of Harlow what we believe to be an unrivalled news service, presented in the best traditions of good journalism - accuracy in news, responsibility in views and dignity in presentation."

"By that we stand or fall, confident that the verdict of the years will be that, not only was the Citizen the first newspaper to be published in any new town but that it also set a new standard in local newspapers, both from an editorial and production viewpoint."

Indeed it was and indeed it did. But also, by those standards set out on day one, it has now fallen.

By the time of its demise, the paper founded on such high initial principles had become a shadow of its former self, owned by an American media giant and trying to serve the New Town its founders loved so dearly from 10 miles away in Epping.

What an unfortunate end to a story which began with such noble aims.

Steamroller's second life in play area

THANKS to Primrose Field resident Mag Barrett for this picture of children playing at Potter Street Playing Fields in 1965 or '66.

"The machine that the kids are playing on was a real steamroller," she said. "It had been used on the building of the new town until it was pensioned off, after which it began its second life as a piece of playground equipment!"

● DO you remember playing on the steamroller or know what became of it? Write to Nostalgia and share your memories.

Faithful friends are already top dogs

By CHRIS MOSS

moss@hertssexnews.co.uk

TWO talented guide dogs have been nominated for a prestigious national award in recognition of their invaluable contribution to the lives of their owners.

The pair of pooches will go nose-to-nose with hundreds of other guide dogs from all over the country for the chance to be crowned Guide Dog of The Year 2008 next month.

Faldo, a golden retriever/collie cross, was nominated by a friend of his owner, Maureen Spicer (58), of Little Cattins, Harlow, because of the huge differences he has made to her life since she completely lost her sight almost five years ago.

Before being given her faithful companion, Ms Spicer was housebound. Today she leads a very full and busy life as a volunteer in the eye clinic at Princess Alexandra Hospital and even enjoys regular games of short-mat bowls.

"He's made a huge difference to my life," she said this week. "I wouldn't be able to go out without him; he's my freedom and my companion."

"Before I got Faldo five years ago I was practically housebound but now we go out most days and I can enjoy doing all sorts of things I wouldn't have been able to do without him."

"It would be lovely for him to win the competition. He certainly deserves it for all his hard work and companionship over the years."

A few miles down the road in Epping, guide dog Yarren, a labrador/retriever cross, has also been making a remarkable difference to owner Will Thoms' life.

Mr Thoms (24), of High Road, said: "Within the last two years Yarren has adapted with ease to the Running cars on household waste

CARS may be expensive to run and contribute to global warming but a team of forward-thinking scientists think they could change all that - by using rubbish as fuel!

The boffins have found an ingenious way to transform household waste into something called bio-ethanol which can be mixed with petrol and used to power cars.

The researchers claim it's a much more environmentally-friendly way of getting out and about, giving off 90 per cent less greenhouse gases than petrol and saving on trips to the dump. It's now thought that a million tonnes of rubbish could be used to run more than a million cars.

The findings are a result of 15 years of complicated experiments during which the scientists have discovered ways of turning bio-degradable rubbish - like paper and vegetable waste - into fuel.

By heating the waste products to a very high temperature, the gases released are mixed with special bacteria which convert the rubbish into bio-ethanol.

In countries like Brazil lots of cars already run on this eco-friendly fuel but there it is made using plants grown in fields.

But by using rubbish instead of plants, crops can be kept for food.

Editor returns to college as ambassador

By JIM TANFIELD
tanfieldj@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A FORMER editor of the country's biggest-selling Sunday newspaper is to take on a role as ambassador for Harlow College's journalism centre.

Phil Hall, who was in charge of the News of The World and also edited the magazine Hello!, trained at the college back in the 1970s. He now runs award-winning PR firm PHA-Media.

"For many years Harlow was considered the place to study for journalists," said Mr Hall. "This is an extremely exciting time and we are going to reclaim our title as the number one journalism institution in the country."

Over the years the college has produced many well-known names in the profession including former Daily Mirror editor Piers Morgan, Sun editor Kelvin MacKenzie, Guardian series editor-in-chief Alan Rusbridger, TV presenter Richard Madeley and BBC reporter-turned-

PHIL HALL: "We are going to reclaim our title as the number one journalism institution in the country"

MP Martin Bell.

Star editor Ken Morley, deputy editor Paul Newman, news editor Louise Sassoon and reporters Ben Wilkinson, Jim Tanfield and Chris Moss also trained at the college.

Paula Dady, head of the college's journalism department, said: "Having Phil on board is a big coup for us. Not only is he one of the most influential figures in British media, but as a Harlow graduate himself he is passionate about the course and knows first-hand the difference training at Harlow can make to someone's career."

Harlow MP and minister for life-long learning Bill Rammell said: "The appointment of Phil Hall is extremely good news for the college."

"Harlow is renowned for producing some of the biggest names in journalism and having Mr Hall as champion should firmly put the development of higher education in Harlow on the map."

The centre is currently undergoing large-scale investment from Anglia Ruskin University, which is delivering part of a £10m pledge to increase higher education provision at the site.

The college now offers degree courses and diplomas in journalism as well as traditional industry qualifications and is set to benefit from new multimedia technology giving students the opportunity to learn new techniques such as podcasts and vodcasts.

Train firms to focus on punctuality

FURTHER improvements to train services through Harlow are on the cards.

Rail operator National Express East Anglia and track owner Network Rail announced this week that punctuality targets for the past year had been surpassed, rising from 87.1 per cent to 90.2 per cent.

Although this figure marks the highest level of punctuality on the network for a decade, the two companies said further improvements were needed to the service, especially in light of the major disruption on the Liverpool Street line when over-running engineering works caused havoc for commuters in the New Year.

They have announced a new joint improvement plan to tackle the issues which have caused problems in the past year including technical faults and fatalities on the tracks.

Network Rail Anglia route director Patrick Hallgate said: "Together we recognise punctuality is a key issue among passengers."

"The plan developed in partnership with NEAA addresses this, demonstrating the range of committed steps that we are taking to increase service consistency across the network."

Caption correction

IN last week's report about tram-polling in the Harvey Centre we incorrectly identified the boy in the photograph as Joshua Snell. The caption should have named him as eight-year-old Jason Bell. We apologise for the error.

Your stars with Patrick Arundell

...through the week ahead

Aries Mar 21-Apr 20

You could have so much energy this week that you can be stuck on how to constructively use it. And yet if you find yourself full of beans, that's not something to knock. Even if you have been feeling unwell or rundown, the chances are that a more positive mindset will take hold. If your nervous system does feel fraught, better times beckon. Call now for your in-depth forecast.

Taurus Apr 21-May 21

The best ideas can often come up in a trice and you and a friend could find yourselves having lots of fun knocking around some possibilities - be it around a hobby or an enterprise. And even if it's a small local or home-based business, this can appeal because you can build it around existing commitments. Yet do factor in the feelings of others, Taurus. Call me now for more astral advice.

Gemini May 22-Jun 21

If you try to force events now, people will be just as strident. And yet you can find yourself welling up with frustration - particularly by any limitations. But a rather defensive side of your nature is close to the surface and this can see you react to the wrong situation and at the wrong time. Yet if you marshal your more logical side, the sky's the limit. Call now for more advice.

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23

If something needs to be said you're likely to put your hand up to say it. But people may not be used to you being so outspoken, however, that may be no bad thing. It's just balancing the potential for a frank exchange to blow up into something much more hostile and feisty. On the upside Cancer, you can tighten your grip on your expenditure. Call for your financial scope.

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23

This is the most important week of the whole year Leo. Plans already in motion can step up a gear or you can show considerable drive on new interests. If you have even a shred of leadership potential this too can shine through. The only thing to avoid is being overbearing, especially when it comes to joint finances. You may be more wilful here. Call me now for your financial forecast.

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23

If you feel someone's neglecting you, your first instinct can be to speak out, but think before you do. An impulsive part of your nature is side-by-side a sensitive one. This can powerfully colour your outlook, but also see you get the wrong end of the stick. What you can do is share your feelings with a trusted confidant, but they may also surprise you. Call for more news and astral advice.

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23

This week sees the most important single event for six months, as a Total Eclipse powers up your friendship sector. And even for someone as light and breezy as you can sometimes be, there's a fantastic opportunity to draw strength from your closest links, love too. Unusual developments are also possible, but these can be really good news stories. Call me now for your love scope in full.

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22

A little bit of nepotism is possible and even if you're fiercely independent and keen to make your own way, you may find it hard to turn an opportunity down - just because someone wants to help. Romantically, a daring you can emerge. This can lead to a raunchier time or see you hit it off immediately with someone you meet through a conference. Call me now for your love scope.

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21

Whatever age or stage of life you are at, the petty limitations or rules that others expect of you - as you see them - can arouse a rebellious streak. You're to be commended for standing up for laudable issues, but if you refuse to play the game of life just to win, you'll do yourself a disservice. Particular tensions can creep in at home Archer. Call now for your in-depth forecast.

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20

You're likely to have great physical and mental energy. If you need to campaign for anything, yours is likely to be a vocal, perhaps vociferous voice in the debate. If voicing opinions is not your thing, you can have an avid desire to soak up information. Newspapers, the web or even a personal blog can feature. A major commitment can be made or fade. Call now for more astral advice.

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19

Your co-ruling planet Uranus goes head to head with Mars. This can see the sparks strike or lead to a passionate embrace, not least because a fabulous Total Eclipse can help you to overhaul your attitude and outlook as far as close bonds are concerned. If you've always shied away from intimate involvements you may be about to take a walk on the wild side. Call for your love scope.

Pisces Feb 20-Mar 20

Feeling light on your feet can help you to deal with life's inevitable strains and if there's a strand of your lifestyle that's less virtuous, now is a good time to tackle this. Even small changes can quickly make a difference - when taken as a whole. However, this is also a week when one relationship could be a bit stormy, to say the least. Pisces, call for more news and astral advice.

Workshop conjures up magical moments

A TOUCH of Broadway came to Old Harlow's Victoria Hall Theatre on Friday when a week-long workshop ended with a magical curtain call. Under the tutelage of professional singer and Victoria Hall regular Becky Oliver, 28 youngsters aged from 8-15 took part in Magic of the Musicals.

The week ended with show-stopping numbers performed to a capacity audience at the Bury Road theatre.

Songs and scripts from such hit shows as Wicked, Arnie, Footloose and Hairspray were among those used in the nine scenes and songs.

Ms Oliver said: "The show was fantastic and they all worked so hard as it was a lot harder than last year. The eight-year-olds had just as much to learn as the 15-year-olds."

arts diary

ART: The Gibberd Gallery in partnership with the Friends of Harlow Sculpture Collection is presenting a showcase of sculpture and paintings by the Cornish artist Paul Mount until September 28. The free exhibition in the Civic Centre concentrates on the artist's connection with the town, where many of his pieces have been on display for decades.

DANCE: This Sunday sees the start of Harlow Ballet School Association's summer course. The complete dance workshop experience has daily classes in ballet, jazz, repertoire and pointe work. For more information including cost and times email harlow.ballet@ntlworld.com.

DANCE: Hip Hop Pop returns to Harlow Playhouse but this time hip-hop-poppers have the chance to choreograph parts of the next production, Sickest Steps, for themselves. Hip Hop Pop students aged 10-28 can bring their ideas to the table from duets to crews, from Krump to Nu-Flo. The production will take place on October 28; to take part check out the website at www.hiphoppop.co.uk/sickeststep to download the application form and return to Hip Hop Pop by September 2.

Gallery exhibits an Earthly connection

SOMETHING more organic and down-to-Earth provides the theme for the latest exhibition at a Harlow art gallery.

Mother Earth, which begins today (Thursday) at The Gallery at Parndon Mill, off Elizabeth Way, celebrates our world and mourns mankind's detrimental impact upon it.

Gallery owner Sally Anderson said: "The

By

exhibition includes paintings which contrast in style but have in common that they are concerned with the Earth. "Some depict the Earth's surface, its structure or its fecundity while other artists touch on the concept and the mythology of the Earth, our dependence on the planet and our abuse of it."

"It also shows how earth in the form of clay, slate and stone can be used to make sculpture and of course ceramics."

One of the pieces in the free exhibition, Flotsam by John and Anthony Gregg, was fixed in place by the artists in the middle of the gallery's millrace. Another piece on display is Edwina Chaston's sculpture Mother Earth which, according to the artist, depicts mankind in foetal form sustained by the damaged womb of Mother Earth.

"The work represents our dependence on the planet that we are damaging," said Ms Chaston. "Of course as artists, whether painters or sculptors, we rely on the earth for our materials but at the most basic level we all, whether human or animal, rely on the earth for the continuation of life. The more damage we cause the less likely our continued survival."

Other featured artists are Julie Cooper, Stella Hunt and Deirdre Shepherd.

The gallery is open Tuesday-Friday 10am-6pm, Saturday noon-4pm and Sunday 2-4pm.

Masterclass in dance moves

A SURPRISE guest wowed young dance fans when he turned up to teach them the latest moves.

American choreographer SHO-Tyme, who has worked with r'n'b stars Usher and Sean Kingston on their videos, body-popped into Harlow dance group Makin' Steps on Wednesday.

He took the youngsters for a three-hour session in which he showed them how to pull off the latest moves.

The dancer turned up last September when the group's members had to pay for a workshop with him but this time, it was a gift from dance director Scott Simpson.

"We thought it would be a really nice treat for them if he just turned up — and it was as they really enjoyed it," said Scott. "By the end of it though they were so tired but excited."

Send in the clones for more Star Wars action

WE'VE already had pixellated penguins, lovingly-rendered rats and an implausibly toned Ray Winstone, but just when you thought no stone had been left unturned in the studios' search for the next animated superstars, along comes Yoda and friends to stake their claim to a slice of the computer-generated pie.

Yes, all you Star Wars aficionados out there – it's time to rejoice as the seventh instalment of the peerless sci-fi franchise hits the big screen.

But only time will tell whether true fans

STAR WARS: THE CLONE WARS

certificate PG, running time 1h 38m will accept these new animated versions of their heroes.

As usual, the action takes place in a galaxy far, far away and attempts to fill in the gaps between its live action predecessors Episode II: Attack of the Clones and Episode III: Revenge of the Sith by following the adventures of Jedi Obi-Wan Kenobi (voiced by James Arnold Taylor) and Anakin Skywalker (Matt Lanter) as they battle the evil Separatists led by Count Dooku (Christopher Lee).

In a desperate bid to find new allies, the benevolent Republic sends Anakin on a perilous mission to find and rescue the kidnapped baby of Jabba the Hutt (Kevin Michael Richardson), a powerful crimelord who promises to throw his considerable weight behind the Republic if the Jedi can bring his missing child home safely.

Much to Anakin's annoyance, however, he is also ordered to take budding young Jedi Ahsoka Tano (Ashley Eckstein), a wisecracking youngster with insane hair, along with him as an apprentice.

Anakin and Ahsoka must put aside their differences to rescue Jabba's son, but devious Count Dooku's marauding foot soldiers, including the villainous Asajj Ventress (Nika Futterman), pull out all the stops to thwart the duo's heroic plan and convince the volatile Hutt that the Republic is actually behind the kidnapping.

Secret agent dyeing for a career change

YOU DON'T MESS WITH THE ZOHAN

certificate 12A, running time 1h 42m

THIS may be a screwball caper about an Israeli agent swapping his sub-machine gun for hairdressing scissors, but its apparent political audacity in sending up the conflict in the Middle East is little more than a poorly-executed gimmick to stir up a bit of right-on outrage. Adam Sandler reunites with Dennis Dugan (Happy Gilmore, Big Daddy), the only director happy to pander to the clown prince's enormous ego, in an unapologetically lowbrow farce that will delight connoisseurs of the fart gag.

Sandler is Zohan, an Ali-G-style creation who's tired of life as the Israeli army's poodle-permed secret weapon and dreams of going to New York to become a hairdresser.

But after faking his own death and assuming a new identity, his questionable fashion taste and love of all things '80s gets him laughed out of every salon in the city until one Palestinian hairdresser takes pity on him and gives him a shot.

Soon a hit with the older clientele, Zohan's American dream is fast becoming a reality until he is recognised by a wily Palestinian cabbie and is forced to confront the old enemy once again in the form of sinister terrorist boss The Phantom (John Turturro).

WILD CHILD

certificate 12A, running time 1h 38m

FOR all those who can't stand the incorrigible 16-year-old pampered heiresses indigenous to the upper echelons of American high society, look away now.

Emma Roberts plays spoilt brat Poppy, whose increasingly wild antics and insufferable bitchiness prompt her long-suffering father to ship her off to boarding school in good old Blighty where he hopes her wayward spirit can be tamed by a combination of stern matrons, compulsory lacrosse and early bedtimes.

Arriving in a ludicrously stereotyped, prim and proper public school, she cooks up a series of mildly risqué pranks with her new airhead chums in a futile bid to get herself expelled before begrudgingly realising that she's actually really rather irritating.

sound check with Chris Moss

EFFORTLESSLY creating hypnotic post-rock lullabies for the more thoughtful listener, Talk Show Hosts make music that is by turns majestic, expansive and beautifully understated.

With elements of grunge, nu-wave and even post-hardcore simmering away sinistinely within their clattering, sky-scraping sound, their output could easily have been slapdash, incoherent and frankly unlistenable. But each influence is so carefully measured and restrained that it never becomes overpowering.

And unlike, say, plodding miserabilists Coldplay, TSH aren't interested in selling their soul to manufacture plasticine, big-bucks conventional epics but actually seem to genuinely want you to join them on some perilous rocket-trip musical odyssey to the dark side of the Moon.

I, for one will be signing up.

CAPTAIN LOVE

Mock Orange (album, Tigertrap)

American indie's nearly men have spent 10 years living in the considerable shadows of Modest Mouse, Built To Spill, et al, but this impeccably polished alt-pop gem of an album may just see them claim some of the limelight they richly deserve for themselves. A rich tapestry of gentle psychedelia, Tennessee sunshine and infectious melody, the fourth album proper from Indiana's favourite sons is perhaps their most adventurous to date; a beautifully weighted prog-pop minor masterpiece that easily holds its own against some of its better-known, heavyweight peers.

KEEP IT SIMPLE

The Delays (single, Fiction)

More helium-fuelled fun from Greg Gilbert and the boys, this is the latest rush of execrable, overblown power-pop from the south coast's answer to Alvin And The Chipmunks. Peddling their usual brand of insufferably cheery, sickly sweet symphonic

THE MUMMY: TOMB OF THE DRAGON EMPEROR.

Brendan Fraser returns as hapless tomb-raiding mummy-botherer Rick O'Connell in the third installment of the adventure franchise that, much like its subject matter, should really be laid to rest once and for all. This time the action takes place in China, where the O'Connell clan face the wrath of a 2,000 year-old megalomaniac emperor with revenge on his mind.

SPACE CHIMPS. Poorly-animated kiddies' CG romp about a circus chimp being launched into space with some of his simian pals to track down a missing spacecraft. But when they crash-land on an uncharted planet, they get more than they bargained for from a nefarious dictator with world-domination on his mind.

THE DARK KNIGHT. Heath Ledger gives an imperious performance as The Caped Crusader's psychotic nemesis in this dark, uncompromising sequel to Batman Begins. Just as Gotham City appears to be on the mend and Batman considers hanging up his cape for good, a new criminal presence emerges from the underworld and, despite his name, he's not playing it for laughs.

MAMMA MIA! The story of a vacuous bride-to-be trying to find her real father in time for her expensive big day, inexplicably told using hit songs by the '70s supergroup ABBA.

SURF'S UP! Brilliant CG mockumentary following the hilarious exploits of wannabe penguin surf-champion Cody Maverick, who enters a prestigious competition in honour of his childhood surfing hero Big Z.

Time for another walk in the dark

DARK CITY: DIRECTOR'S CUT
(Entertainment In Video, 15, retail)

Writer/director Alex Proyas' Dark City is an astonishing visual feast, a conceptually bold blending of nightmarish dystopian sci-fi and film noir stylings redolent of classic movies, all woven around a grim mystery which subtly raises questions about the nature of memory and identity. First released in 1988, film-goers were probably expecting something more linear and along the lines of the director's previous hit The Crow, and it certainly didn't help that a nervous studio insisted on adding an opening monologue which pretty much gave the game away from the first few frames.

Thankfully, this long-overdue director's cut restores the film to what should have been, removing the voice-over and reinstating material to round out the characters and their plight.

John Murdoch (Rufus Sewell) wakes up confused and naked in a strange hotel room with the body of a murdered woman. He barely has a chance to draw breath before the cops (led by William Hurt) are hounding his steps for a series of brutal killings.

He's also dogged by a creepy doctor (Keifer Sutherland) and nightclub singer Emma (Jennifer Connelly), who claims to be his wife – although he has no memory of her.

His quest for the truth or, rather, for the apparent reality of the situation, is further hampered in that each time he awakes in this city of perpetual night, everything has changed; the buildings have shifted or vanished, squalid small rooms have opened up into opulent apartments and although the faces around him are familiar, the people wearing them seem to have morphed into new roles with no memory of their previous incarnations.

Most sinister of all are John's encounters with the strange, pale-faced men in black (including The Rocky Horror Picture Show's Richard O'Brien) who seem to be the architects of his, and the city's, confusion.

To say more would serve the function of the intrusive voice-over, suffice it to say that what appears to be a paranoid conspiracy eventually strikes a deeply poignant chord with John's aching desire to establish a coherent past and the slender possibility of a future hope in his personal Eldorado at the seemingly unreachable Shell Beach.

Dark City is a film to savour over and again, its rich and complex visuals evoking the Expressionist spirit of Metropolis, Nosferatu and M, along with something of the haunting tone of Edward Hopper's paintings and the very best of Hollywood's classic crime melodramas.

Extras in this edition include commentaries from critic Roger Ebert (a major champion since the film was so unjustly overlooked on its first release), Proyas and also from co-writers David Goyer and Lem Dobbs, an introduction by Proyas, the documentaries Memories Of Shell Beach and Architecture Of Dreams, a production gallery and a trailer.

PATHOLOGY
(Entertainment In Video, 18, retail & rental)

Heroes star Milo Ventimiglia goes some distance to showcase his dark side in this blackly amusing and very graphic medical thriller.

He plays Dr Ted, top of his class and freshly returned from noble works overseas to take an internship in one of America's most highly regarded pathology departments.

Straight away, he finds himself at odds with the rather self-regarding and irreverent group of students already in situ, who pride themselves on their abilities to make insightful forensic diagnoses in the most testing of cases.

However, it's not long before they accept him into their hard-partying inner circle and seduce him into participating in their ghoulish extra curricula activities – namely, pulling off the perfect murder in such a way as fellow team-mates can't figure out how it was done.

Pulled into this morbid group hobby, Dr Ted shortly finds himself conducting half-assed autopsies with them while sucking on a crack pipe in the dead of night, much to the concern of his hot lawyer girlfriend and the department's head.

But when he attempts to call it day, his fellow conspirators are less than pleased and it looks like Dr Ted may well be next on the slab.

Director Mark Schoellerman directs this tale from writers/producers Brian Taylor and Mark Neveldine, creators of the equally frenetic Crank, with a grisly brio, and misses no opportunity to cram in gory medical details or to ham up the broad gallows humour.

Extras include a commentary from the trio, a making-of, music video and an interesting chat with a pathologist.

THE COTTAGE

(20th Century Fox Home Entertainment, 18, retail & rental)

Cheap, cheerful, silly and splattery, Brit indie director/writer Paul Andrew Williams' second feature is a far cry from his more serious-minded debut London To Brighton.

It starts out as a comedic crime caper, with seething minor villain David (Andy Serkis) and his flustered, ever-complaining brother Peter (The League Of Gentlemen's Reece Shearsmith) arriving at a remote cottage with their ghastly, pneumatic kidnaper victim Tracey (Brookside's Jennifer Ellison, channelling a foul-mouthed Vicki Pollard).

The extent of their utter incompetence is revealed pretty quickly and their little scheme is left in tatters when it turns out her gangster father has rumbled them and switched the ransom for a bag of tissues.

But that's the least of their worries – they're out in Royston Vasey territory here and, following the dark mutterings of creepy locals, the film swerves gleefully into gory slasher territory when they cross the path of a psychotic, horribly scarred farmer.

Williams keeps the gags coming thick and fast, is savvy enough to play the horror straight while packing some wince-inducing punches and, out of this ketchup-splattered latter-day Carry On, manages to find time to craft some oddly tender and touching moments between the two mismatched brothers.

pop, slating this band of super-smiley Mark Owen clones might seem as wantonly cruel as kicking a cute ickle puppy in the face, but they're surely old enough to know that the world's made up of far more than pink candy-floss, cookies and picnicking teddy bears.

I DECIDED

Solange (single, Polydor)

It's like pop soul, it's also a terrible sound, a really unpleasant and repetitive warble. Solange ... farewell, auf wiedersehen, goodbye!

STEVE McQUEEN

The Automatic (single, b-unique)

Not to be confused with the Sheryl Crow song which, like this, had very little to do with the iconic actor and can only ever dream of being about one per cent as cool as he was. This is merely a gathering of punk-edged teenage dreamers making music – and Welsh, to boot. It's kind of fun but nothing else.

MAKE THIS WORK
Magistrates (single, XL)

An interesting band, this Essex answer to MGMT. Unfortunately, though, this turgid love song does little to show off their song-writing abilities. Check out their Myspace page and listen to some of their good material instead.

MERCURY

Bloc Party (single, Wichita)

Originality and a desire to push boundaries is generally an admirable quality, but if you make it as off-putting and uncomfortable to listen to as this, then the purpose is somewhat lost. Banquet this is not.

ABLESSING on one hand, a hindrance on the other. There can be little denying that Volvo's reputation for building sensible cars is alive and kicking.

It's a blessing in that, when it's time to think grown-up car, Volvo is one of the first manufacturers that springs to mind.

Reliable, solidly built and practical, drivers of larger Volvos soon find that the Swedish firm's cars are as important to, and as capable at, family life as a sturdy house and a pet dog.

But it's a hindrance in that the button-down, two-point-four children existence isn't one that many manufacturers are particularly comfortable with, preferring to market themselves as dynamic, youthful and exhilarating instead.

Fortunately, Volvo now has the C30 for the energetic hatchback market, which means it can concentrate on what it renowned for – sensible, practical and comfortable large cars.

VOLVO S80 SE SPORT 2.0D

ENGINE
 2.0-litre diesel unit developing 134bhp and 236lb/ft of torque
TRANSMISSION
 6-speed manual transmission driving the front wheels
ECONOMY
 49.6mpg

PERFORMANCE
 0-62mph 11 seconds / maximum speed 124mph
CO2 EMISSIONS
 151g/km
PRICE
 £26,845 on the road (Volvo S80 prices start from £23,495)

The S80 is one of those. Gone are the days when Volvo was associated with boxy and boring. The current generation of models keep the shape we're all familiar with but have added an additional sleek element that gives them the fashionable, tailored look of an expensive suit.

The S80 2.0D Sport benefits from those smart, distinctive good looks plus the addition of some 18-inch alloy wheels, but under the bonnet it's all business with the two-litre diesel engine.

The S80, and its V70 estate sister, are available with a surprisingly dynamic range of engines including the powerful D5 diesel, V8 petrol and even a Flexifuel option. But for solid motorway use, family holiday load lugging and all-round economy, it's hard to look much further than the 2.0-litre diesel.

The S80 is not a small car, competing against the likes of the substantial BMW 5 Series and Audi A6, so it's impressive that the car achieves a quoted combined figure of nearly 50mpg. It is economy that's achievable on road and not just on paper. The S80's relaxed ride and long gearing encourages a more efficient driving style and low down torque means there's little to be gained from attempting to thrash the unit, Sport badges or not.

In truth, the Sport branding refers to trim level rather than any genuine performance credentials. With the exception of the larger alloys as standard, only the S80 Sport's three-way adjustable chassis can fly the sports flag. The Four-C set-up allows the driver to choose between comfort, sport and advanced settings, although the always active system automatically adjusts itself to tune chassis performance to driving style.

The effects are noticeable, the comfort setting in particular offering enough benefit to make it worth reaching for the button. However, even with the more dynamic settings engaged the S80 isn't a car that responds with vigour to enthusiastic driving. The steering is responsive but not sensitive while the long throw on the six-speed manual box doesn't lend itself to sporty changes.

From the driver's seat the car feels tailored for comfort and steady progress rather than dynamism. But the body roll and predictable under steer through corners translate into a cushioned and stately ride on the motorway, where the S80 is most at home.

The Sport's interior adds to the relaxed nature of the car. Leather seats combine well with brushed aluminium trim to create an extremely refined interior.

In the front and rear the seats are well bolstered and comfortable. Leg and head room are good and a very large boot means the S80 can accommodate five adults and luggage with ease.

The quality of build and materials leave no doubt as to the validity of Volvo's strong reputation. The diesel unit can be a little raucous when cold or pushed hard, but wind and road noise are suppressed to an admirable standard and at motorway cruising speed the sensibly spaced gears make for a very refined experience.

Interior ergonomics have clearly been carefully considered, too, with a high level of equipment neatly incorporated into stylish and intuitive fascias and controls.

In truth, the S80 Sport doesn't really live up to its name but it excels in the areas where we've all come to expect a big Volvo score highly.

If it's a genuinely sporty drive you seek then look elsewhere, but for comfort, refinement, understated style and practicality, the S80 is up there with the finest.

Ready to build your future with one of the UK's largest banks and second largest provider of mortgages and savings? As part of the Santander Group, we enjoy all the backing of a global bank with 129,000 employees, 67 million customers and 10,800 branches in 40 countries – so we're really going places. You can join us on our journey.

Personal Banking Adviser

In this desk-based role at one of our branches, you will give our customers all the guidance they need to realise their personal financial goals. This will involve engaging people from all walks of life, gathering information, matching requirements to products and closing the sale or referring the enquiry to a colleague. An assured and effective communicator, you will bring a proven record in targeted sales, ideally with a good understanding of financial products and solutions. At the same time, you will require the diplomacy to deal with the occasional customer complaint and the cash handling skills to coach counter staff, so you can expect variety and challenge every day.

Abbey for Intermediaries sells our Mortgages, Protection and General Insurance range to the Intermediary market through our Key Relationships with IFA's, Mortgage Brokers, Estate Agents and Insurance Company representatives. The department currently delivers some two thirds of Abbey's new mortgage applications.

In this role you will build and develop positive sales relationships with Intermediaries. Working over the telephone, you will identify and build business opportunities to sell mortgages and protection and related products with our Intermediaries. We are looking for experienced sales target driven individuals with excellent customer service skills, and the ability to develop long term relationships with customers. You will also have excellent communication skills, verbal and written, and evidence of having developed these in both a telephone and face-to-face environment. One key essential criteria for this role is for you to have a working knowledge of the mortgage process.

Website and Communications Officer

£21,412 - £23,749 per annum (depending upon relevant experience), pay award pending

Plus Uttlesford allowance of £540 per annum after one year's continuous service with this Council

We are looking for an enthusiastic individual, who can continue to develop our brand new website while providing broader communications support.

You will be the Council's webmaster, developing the design and content of the Council's website, ensuring timely updates, as well as ensuring compliance with accessibility and usability standards. In addition, you will be responsible for our intranet.

The role will also see you researching and writing press releases, dealing with media enquiries and writing a variety of Council publications including our staff newsletter and residents' magazine.

You will need a good knowledge of websites and an understanding of how they work – particularly with regard to content management systems. Knowledge of HTML, server technology and how to repair/edit errors directly on the server would be an advantage.

Experience of the media, an understanding of Council communications and the ability to write clearly and concisely are also required.

For an informal discussion about the post, please contact Adrian Webb, Interim Director of Central Services, on 01799 510421 until Thursday, 14 August or Richard Auty, Head of Community Engagement, on 01799 510500, on or after Monday, 18 August 2008.

SENIOR HOUSING OFFICER (QUALITY & PERFORMANCE)

Ref: HRS/11

Grade 6 Salary Scale £12,940 to £14,303 (increasing to £14,767 after minimum of 5 years' service) inclusive of Inner London Fringe Allowance

Monday to Friday – 21 hours per week

The Housing Directorate achieved the ISO 9001:2000 accreditation in 2002 and has a number of processes in place to monitor the quality of service management. We are continually looking to improve performance and service to the tenants and leaseholders of this District, and a number of initiatives are in place, which require regular checks.

This post is strongly involved in these initiatives, in particular performance monitoring and maintenance of the accreditations we have already achieved. If you are someone who has a good understanding of these issues and the ability to deal with them, then you could be the person we are seeking to employ.

This position could ideally suit someone who may have previously held a senior position within Local Government or a similar role elsewhere, and is looking for a challenging role with the flexibility of fewer hours. It may also suit someone interested in taking the first steps towards a career in quality management.

You will be required to attend the ISO Internal Auditor Course and attain the appropriate qualification, if this has not already been achieved. This will be required in order to carry out audits of the various processes within the Housing Directorate.

You should be computer literate, particularly in the use of spreadsheets (to intermediate or advanced level) and be able to demonstrate excellent written and presentation skills. Some experience in housing would be an advantage.

In addition to this, you will be required to take on other duties and ad hoc projects when required, relating to the development of housing policies and strategies.

This Authority operates a generous flexi-leave scheme. This post does not attract a relocation package.

If you would like some more information about this post, please contact Sandy Lindsay (Housing Resources Manager) on 01992 564035.

Closing date: 12 Noon, 28 August 2008.

For an application form apply online at www.eppingforestdc.gov.uk/jobs (no CVs please) or contact Human Resources Unit, Epping Forest District Council. Telephone 01992 564433 (24 hour answer service). Please quote the reference number.

Schools, Children & Families

Education Welfare Officer – TASC 2 Harlow Team

£16,218 - £24,546 p.a. (pay award pending)

£535 p.a. Outer Fringe

37 hours per week

Please quote ref: GEM019Do

Education Welfare Officers are primarily responsible for working with schools, parents and children, and other professionals, in promoting and improving regular school attendance and social inclusion. This post is based in the multi-disciplinary Team Around School Child and Community (TASC).

We are seeking a highly motivated individual, who has the ability to negotiate in difficult situations and has a flexible approach to problem solving. You should be able to make sound decisions, based on the facts available and have proven ability to provide, analyse and interpret data. You will provide advice and guidance to schools, parents and other professionals on attendance matters. You will be required to progress casework and determine, where necessary, the need for legal action. A relevant background and a good standard of education are essential.

If you are appointed to the post, you will be required to obtain a Criminal Records Disclosure Certificate.

The duties of this job require the postholder to travel throughout an operational area, therefore a valid driving license and use of car is required unless the role can be undertaken effectively by other alternative transport arrangements. For applicants with a disability as defined by the Disability Discrimination Act, the scope for reasonable adjustments will be explored with them as part of the selection process.

For informal enquiries, please contact Michelle Bliss on 01279 772862.

For further information and to apply on-line, please go to www.jobsatessex.co.uk

Closing date: 29 August 2008.

If you are unable to apply on-line, contact the Essex County Council Recruitment line on 0870 1699 722, e-mail essexcc.jobs@capita.co.uk or minicom 0870 1699 734 quoting the job reference number.

Ringrose snubs Epping FC

EPPING boss Lee Ward is hoping to appoint an assistant boss in the next few days after Steve Ringrose decided to join Combined Counties League side North Greenford.

Ward was tight-lipped about the new man but was reconciled over Ringrose's decision.

Ward, who played under Ringrose at Hemel Hempstead, said: "Steve has managed at step four [on the Non-League ladder] and he did take Hillingdon Borough to the FA Vase final two years ago."

"He took some sessions which the players liked but with all respect to Epping we are step seven."

Epping will visit Royston Town in a friendly this Saturday as they gear up for the start of the Essex Olympian League premier division campaign.

Ward's men will be hoping to bounce back after a 4-1 defeat to Ilford Wanderers at Debden Sports Ground on Tuesday and a 2-1 away defeat to Old Chigwellians.

Cheng Mpanitsa scored both the Epping goals.

Final loss for Harlow

THERE was a heartbreaking defeat for Harlow Town Cricket Club's Under-15 team in the final of the West Essex District Board competition.

High Roding won Monday's final by nine wickets.

Harlow batted first and were bowled out for 97. Darryl Pettengell struck 45.

In reply, Henry Hebron hit 61 as Roding reached the target and posted 98-1.

Town had beaten Dunmow by six wickets in the semi-final and defeated neighbours Harlow by four wickets in the last eight.

Cricket programme hit by bad weather

JAMES Butler's Harlow team were left frustrated by the weather on Saturday. Not a ball was bowled due to rain so the Marigolds men picked up six points from their match at Harold Wood in the Shepherd Neame Essex League division two.

Only two games in the division were completed.

Walthamstow closed the gap on Loughton in the second promotion spot as they beat Shenfield by two runs.

Harlow remain in sixth.

In division three, EPPING's match at Benfleet was abandoned.

The hosts had put on 170-8, but the weather worsened and the Lower Bury Lane men were unable to face a single ball in reply.

In division one of the 3rd XI championship, Harlow struggled to 87-9 before their home match against Hadleigh & Thundersley was abandoned.

One of the few local matches which was completed saw Harlow's fourth team draw with Chingford V.

The hosts put on 221-6 but Harlow held on, finishing with 185-7.

SAWBRIDGEWORTH's match at Harpenden in the Home Counties Premier League division two east also fell foul of the conditions.

The visitors reached 45-2 before rain intervened.

Danny Wilson (18 not out), and Steve Ashman (22) had chipped in with the runs before the latter, plus Dean Lloyd (0) were dismissed in successive balls by Harpenden bowler Joe Peck.

SATURDAY was a memorable day in the history of Harlow Town Cricket Club as both the first and second teams were promoted.

Town's first XI beat Molehill Green after chasing down 198 runs for victory to secure promotion from division three of the Lord's International Herts & Essex League.

It was the side's third promotion in successive seasons since joining the League.

Meanwhile, Town's second team went up from division five after defeating Stansted Hall IIs.

First team captain Vic Goddard said it was a momentous occasion for the club. "We took a risk when we changed leagues. We wanted to keep moving up young players."

"We were travelling down to East London and it was not much fun."

Molehill Green 197-8 Harlow Tn 198-6

Town won by four wickets (Lords International Herts & Essex League, division three)

Goddard is hopeful his side can clinch a fourth straight promotion in division two next term. "We are still below the standard we are capable of playing at. It will be more of a challenge next year and hopefully we can win promotion again."

The skipper added: "Everyone has chipped in but three have really stood out. Ashley Alderson has 500 league runs and taken 20 wickets. Pat Yates is our opening batsman and Simon Rowell is our leading wicket-taker. Left-arm spinners don't get the credit they deserve."

Against Molehill Green, Town won the toss and decided to field despite the rain.

The visitors made a solid start with the Town attack struggling for accuracy with the wet ball.

Marc Lowers (3-38) then began to make inroads into the Green batting, along with James Hayter (2-21) which sparked a tumble of wickets to leave them struggling at 69-5 at one point.

Will Connolly led the fight-back for the visitors with an impressive knock of 98 as Green posted a challenging 197-8.

Town set about the run chase with openers Shiraz Ali and the in-form Pat Yates looking confident at the crease.

Ali was dismissed for 20 after he skied a high full toss to slip which only brought Ramaya Upadhyay to the crease and he stepped on the gas to make 56.

After Yates was run out for 62 Town suffered a crazy 20 minutes, losing another four wickets and putting the game back into the balance with the score on 157-6.

However, steadier batting from Hayter (29 not out) and Lowers (12no) in the dark and damp conditions ensured the points were only heading one way.

Town's 2nd XI had their match reduced to 25 overs because of the rain.

The visitors were set an imposing target after Stansted Hall notched up 177-8.

Tony Brown had smashed an impressive unbeaten 107.

Only Shane Hooper escaped punishment. He ended with 1-20 off his five overs.

The target was met in just 19 overs as Scott Alderson (69) and Charlie Coleman (70 not out) hit the Hall bowlers to all parts.

Town ended on 180-1 to win by nine wickets.

In division three, POTTER STREET (263-8) lost to Woodford Wells IV (267-6) by four wickets.

Abridge's imposing 372-5 was too high for Harlow Town IIs (256-3), who lost by 116 runs in division seven, while Potter Street II (294-4) beat Langley II (80) by 214 runs.

AVIVA debut is a huge Mark of achievement

MARK Hunt, above, is looking forward to rubbing shoulders with international athletes in the AVIVA Grand Prix athletics meeting at Gateshead in the North East on August 31.

The 17-year old from Three Horseshoes Road in Harlow has been invited to run in the junior 400m event.

The meeting will be shown on BBC TV.

It comes after a season in which his 400m personal best (PB) time has dropped from 49.80s to 48.04s.

His biggest achievement this year was when he claimed silver in the English National Schools Championships' 400m event at Gateshead in July.

He told Star Sport: "It will be good to compete against the four members of the Great Britain side who competed in the World Junior Championships."

"Matthew Harrison will also be there. I train with him at Chelmsford [Athletic Club] and we push each other. I beat him in the South of England Championships and he beat me at the England Schools."

Hunt is hoping to use the AVIVA meeting as a chance to speak to Great Britain 400m runner Martin Rooney, who is competing for Great Britain at the Olympics in Beijing.

"There is a warm-up area athletes go to and it would be good if I got to speak to Martin and ask him about things like race preparation and how many races I should be doing," he said.

Hunt also hopes to break the 48.0s barrier up there.

"I would like to get under 48 seconds and this race takes me to the end of August when the season winds down."

Hunt pinpoints his improvement this summer to an increase in training sessions. "They have all added up and it has made a big difference. Before I was training twice a week and sometimes three times," he said.

Hunt's dream is to represent GB in the 4x400m relay team at the London 2012 Olympics. "It's the best two runners that compete in the individual event whereas the relay team has six," he explained.

Last weekend, the teenager won the B string 400m in 49.07s when he represented Essex in a southern inter-counties meeting at Kingsmeadow Stadium in Surrey. Hunt was also in the winning 4x400m Essex relay team, running his leg in 49.6s.

At the same meeting, Calvin Barnes (19), from Harlow, came second in the B long jump (6.72m) and Kathrine Foy (Epping) set a PB of 2 mins 21secs to come 4th in the B string 800m.

Point for Robins in league opener

Barking 1, Sawbridgeworth Tn 1
(Essex Senior League)

RICHARD Branchflower adopted a philosophical outlook after the Robins had to settle for only a point in their opening league game.

Sawbridgeworth Town, who were missing striker Kevin Moore (work commitments), had the edge for most of Saturday's clash at Mayesbrook Park but could not make it count.

The Robins' boss said: "For the first 70 minutes we dominated but we did not turn chances into goals.

"If somebody had offered me a point beforehand I would be pleased but I thought we deserved all three."

Sawbridgeworth went ahead on 59 minutes. New signing Ed Bowler was set up on the left by Paul Baker and he fired home from 25 yards.

The hosts equalised on 74 minutes when centre-half Craig Greenwood headed home from a free-kick.

SAWBRIDGEWORTH TN: Bibby, Hayter, Day, Bulled, Godden, Sontag, E. Bowler, (Hudson 75), Baker, Doyle, B. Bowler (M. Conlan 85), A. Conlan.

Lampard coaching prize at skills day

YOUNGSTERS will get the chance to test and improve their soccer skills for free – and win a private coaching session with England's Frank Lampard – when the FA Tesco Skills Roadshow visits Harlow on Monday.

The coaching clinic is being run at Tesco's Edinburgh Way store between 11am and 3pm for boys and girls aged 5-11 years.

Kids can take part in a number of fun football skills sessions, while specialist FA skills coaches will be on hand to give coaching tips.

There will be a number of inflatable football games such as target practice and speed camera shooting.

Each child will also be entered into an exclusive draw to win a place at a private coaching session with international stars Lampard and Kelly Smith.

A total of 150 places are up for grabs but one child from each roadshow will be guaranteed a place.

The competition can also be entered via the website www.TheFA.com/Skills

Warren completes London triathlon

HAWKS assistant manager Kevin Warren shone when he completed the London Triathlon Open Men's Olympic Distance.

Warren, also Harlow Town's reserve team manager, raised more than £1,800 for charity and finished inside his target time limit, completing the event in two hours, 45 minutes.

"My target was £600 so I've tripled that which I'm over the moon about," he said.

The first stage of Sunday's event saw Warren tackle a 1,500m swim, which he finished in 31 minutes.

He then took an hour and 20 minutes to cycle the 40km bike ride, before finishing with a 10km run in 44 minutes.

Tough test for Kirby's men

"A lot of teams I know do not carry a keeper on the bench. The chances of an injury are not the same as an outfield player. More outfield options give you the chance of extra points than an extra keeper on the bench. I do have [defender] Michael Gliddon as emergency cover."

After Sutton, Harlow travel to Northbridge Angels in the league on Tuesday.

Kirby added: "We had a tough game at Northbridge last year. They work very hard and try to play football."

NATIONAL HUNT: Edward Banner-Eve and his horse Tolocita, an Argentine gelding. The pair helped his Enfield Chase team win a national polo tournament in West Sussex

Edward, 11, from Old Harlow, was in the Enfield Chase side that beat Cotswold from Gloucestershire 3-1 in the U-14 final on Sunday. Teams from all over Great Britain competed in the event.

Edward is no stranger to success. He was in the Bishop's Stortford Rugby Club U-11 team that won a national tournament at Twickenham in May.

His polo team beat Cowdray

Polo

A 5-0 and Grafton (Surrey) 1-0, before drawing 0-0 against these teams in a second round of matches.

Enfield Chase qualified for the national finals after winning three matches at Tidworth in Hampshire. They beat The Cottismore (Rutland), The Royal Artillery (Tidworth) and The Vine (Basingstoke, Hampshire).

His mother Bron said: "He is addicted to polo and was thrilled. It was anxious for me watching and I was very proud afterwards. Edward has been riding horses from a young age. He loves it."

Hawks boosted as win ends bad run

Brentford Tn 2, Harlow Tn 3
(Ryman League, premier division)

THE Hawks will head into their league opener at home to Sutton United on a high after winning their final pre-season game at Brentwood Town.

Saturday's win helped to erase the negative memory of the four previous friendlies which had brought three defeats and a draw.

Harlow Town player-boss Ryan Kirby used the game to give trials to former Canvey Island midfielders Clyde Roberts and Daniel Francis.

Kirby said: "Clyde is strong and gets forward and back while Francis can play on either side. I would like to have extra competitions for places."

However, Kirby's hands could be tied with him saying: "We do not have a lot of money."

Reserve team central defender Paul Kears also had 90 minutes. "He did really well in training on Thursday and I thought I would put him in and see how he did. He is only 17 and looked comfortable," said Kirby.

With Michael Dumoulin absent due to his commitments with The X-Factor TV programme and Kirby deciding not to risk James Hasell (neck injury), the Hawks boss played Jason Hardy in goal. Hardy, who plays for Essex Senior League side Takeley, had previously played for the Hawks in 2005-06 and will be an emergency option this season.

Harlow went ahead at Brentwood after only eight minutes. Home keeper Phil Skelton parried Jamie Richards' right-footed shot and Danny Green bundled the ball home.

Hardy made a fine save three minutes later, tipping over a Gareth Street header.

The visitors increased their lead on 16 minutes when skipper James Bunn was brought down in the box by Chris Bourne and Richards sent Skelton the wrong way from the penalty spot for his first Harlow goal.

The visitors created more chances but did not increase their lead until the 50th minute. Skelton took too long over his clearance and Bunn charged the ball down, before rounding the retreating keeper and shooting into an empty net.

Brentwood reduced the deficit on 63 minutes. Donovan Wilson's ball down the right was latched onto by ex-Hawks striker Sammy Winstone and he ran on before firing home.

Hawks substitute Jordan Fowler took advantage of a slip in midfield to feed Richards near the end, but his low shot was well saved by Skelton.

Danny Glazier made for a nervy ending when he curled a free-kick into an unguarded net on 85 minutes for 3-2. This was awarded after Clark Akers had felled Chris Bourne.

Kirby added: "We were much better. The first goal they got disappointed me and for the second goal Jason [Hardy] showed him too much."

HARLOW TN: Hardy, Taylor (Tague 68), S. Gliddon, Chapman, Kears, Roberts, Lalite (Fowler 45), Francis (Baker 80), Richards, Bunn, Green (Akers 45). Sub not used: Kirby.

Mitchinson suffers national final defeat

STEVE Mitchinson will hope for better luck in the triples and mixed fours after suffering a heartbreaking defeat in an EBA (English Bowls Association) national final at Worthing at the weekend.

The Harlow bowler represented his Romford club in the National Top Club final on Sunday.

The team had won the semi-final in the morning but lost the final in the afternoon.

Superstitious Mitchinson told Star Sport afterwards that he was concerned when he found out that the rink that the final was being played on was the one that he had lost three national semi-finals on in the last five years!

National Top Club matches are played over five disciplines with one point awarded for a win in each. The disciplines are 2-wood singles, 4-wood singles, pairs, triples and fours.

In the semi-final, Romford played Backworth BC from Northumberland.

BOWLS by ALAN SCOTT
Sports Editor
scotta@hertsessexnews.co.uk

The match was in the balance as Romford had won the singles but a loss in the pairs meant that the Essex club still needed a point from either the triples or the fours.

Mitchinson's team were 13-12 down in the triples when the Harlow man drove the jack off the rink.

On the replayed end, Romford were losing again but Mitchinson drew the last wood to force an extra end.

However, it was all in vain as the Romford skip lost his match.

Despite this the Romford team snatched a one-shot win in the fours to advance to the final – Mitchinson's first after four semi-final defeats.

In the final, Romford played Aldershot Traction BC.

The spoils were shared in the two singles matches before the Hampshire team took a decisive lead in the pairs.

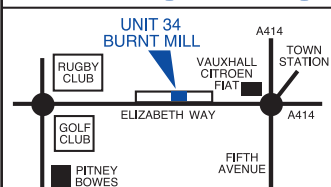

Some excellent play from the Aldershot skip proved conclusive as his side picked up the win which made the fours irrelevant and the Hampshire side conceded this last game.

Mitchinson said: "I finally reached an England final after losing four semi-finals in the last five years but playing the final on the rink that I had previously lost three of those semi-finals didn't bode well and again I came agonisingly close to a win.

"With the triples and mixed fours to come later in the week hopefully I can have a good run, especially if I can avoid that rink!"

The triples competition starts today (Thursday) and the mixed fours is on Saturday.

Tough test for Kirby's men in Ryman premier opener

HAWKS boss Ryan Kirby knows that his side will have their work cut out when they face Sutton United in their Ryman League premier division opener at Barrows Farm this Saturday.

Sutton were relegated from Blue Square South last term and Kirby watched them in a friendly against Uxbridge 12 days ago. Former Aldershot and Enfield striker Steve West took over as assistant player-manager at Sutton in the summer and the club have assembled a strong looking squad.

Kirby said: "They have an excellent budget and I would be surprised if they are not pushing on up there. They have a good keeper and he was finding West with his clearances."

"West has been up there and he knows the game very well. They also have Steve McKinn in midfield who is very good. It will be a good game and it will be nice to get a big crowd there."

Barring any last minute training injuries, Kirby's likely to have a full squad for Saturday although he might go with just one keeper.

James Hasell should don the goalie's shirt and Michael Dumoulin and new signing Jason Hardy (also attached to Takeley) are unlikely to figure at all.

Dumoulin has been unavailable due to his commitments with the TV series The X-Factor while Hardy will only be available in an emergency.

"I would rather they [Dumoulin and Hardy] were playing first team football."

"Jason is not ready to push James in the same way as Michael did last season," said Kirby.

Second chance!

Reprieved GB judo ace must take golden opportunity

GOLD HOPE: Peter Cousins (9)

PETER Cousins was expected to start his quest to become the first ever Great Britain judo gold medallist at around 5am today (Thursday), writes ALAN SCOTT.

The 27-year-old Harlow ace's appearance at the Olympic Games was in doubt two years ago after he missed three drugs tests and was originally banned from Beijing.

However, he won an appeal in 2006 and clinched his spot in China when he took silver at the World Judo Championships in Brazil a year ago.

Cousins had a tough opening opponent in Beijing in the shape of Georgia's Levan Zhorzholiani in the under-100kg class.

The Eastern European came fifth in both the 2007 World and European Championships and claimed gold at the World Cup in Tbilisi, Georgia, this year.

However, Cousins beat the Georgian en route to finishing fifth at this year's European Championships.

If the former Passmores School student was to lose this first round match, he would move to the repechage section, where he would still have a chance of a bronze medal.

His goal however is the final on Saturday August 23, where he hopes to become the first ever GB judo gold medallist at the Olympic Games.

Great Britain last won judo medals at the Olympic Games in Barcelona in 1992. On that occasion athletes returned with a haul of two silvers and two bronze medals.

Cousins headed to Beijing with high hopes, but it was a far cry to January 2006 when the fighter had missed three routine doping tests. He appealed on the grounds that his offence was minor.

The BOA (British Olympic Association) heard his case in November of that year. The BOA panel rejected his claim but did agree there were significant mitigating circumstances and reprieved him.

It said that at the time of the missed tests there were "technological teething problems and some understandable confusion".

Cousins' appeal followed the case of Manchester United footballer Rio Ferdinand, who was banned from the 2004 European Championships for missing three drugs tests.

Great Britain runner Christine Ohuruogo was subsequently cleared to take part in the Olympics after she missed three drugs tests.

Now it's down to the Harlow ace to make sure his reprieve counts.

Speaking to Star Sport before he left for Beijing, Cousins was in defiant mood. "I can be world class. It's all about being aggressive at the right time. I need to produce my best," he said.

Acer flush with success as gold beckons

ACER Nethercott and his Great Britain eight's rowing team will go for gold in Sunday's final after conquering all before them in their heat on Monday.

Speaking to Star Sport moments after his team's victory, Harlow-based Nethercott, the cox, said: "The stopwatch doesn't lie and I knew we were on course throughout the race. "It's been six weeks since we raced anyone, it's been like starting again. We had a good, solid row."

The GB men's team reached the final in emphatic style, beating USA and dark horses China, who came in third.

The crew consists of cox Nethercott, plus East Herts-based Tom Stallard, Colin Smith, Matt Langridge, Alastair Heathcote, Josh West, Richard Egington, Tom Lucy and Alex Partridge.

Listening intently to the commands of Nethercott the crew maintained a stroke rate in the high 30s in the early stages of the race as they trailed in third at the 500m mark behind China and USA.

But they then moved strongly and took a lead which they never relinquished, and were 3.69 seconds up at the 1,500m mark.

The team has turned around their form dramatically since finishing 6th in the World Cup in Lucerne, Switzerland, in 2006.

They shone at this year's World Cup, taking second and a third. Prior to the start of the Games the team went to Austria to a high altitude camp to help them deal with the conditions in China.

Nethercott, a former student at Mark Hall School, added: "We've worked a lot technically since Lucerne which was the last time we tested ourselves against the rest of the world."

"It was clear then we weren't up to speed and our coaches John West and Mark Banks have done a fabulous job with us since then."

GB will face the likes of USA, Canada and Poland in Sunday's final.
